

2-Day jewellery extravaganza kicks off on a sparkling note

The Gem and Jewellery Export Promotion Council (GJEPC), apex body of the gems and jewellery sector, presented the 7th edition of the India International Jewellery Week (popularly known as IIJW) powered by GIA (Gemological Institute of America); co-partnered by Forevermark and Platinum Guild International. Bright Outdoor Advertising is the Outdoor Partner at St. Regis, Mumbai. Here's a look at all the interesting happenings on the first day of this grand show...

Vipin Sharma, CEO, Azva and Vani Kapoor

Azva's line called 'Red Carpet' was a visual treat for the audience with singer Rachel Varghese setting the mood for some exotic jewellery. It had a well-edited range of 30 designs, the inspiration was the saat phere, but in a contemporary manner. From eye-catching necklaces to gorgeous chokers, the creations moved to medallion sets. The seven row haars were showstopping and the element of seven manifested in the designs of every piece.

Showstopper Dia Mirza with designer Nupur Vasdev for PC Jeweller

To the strains of live vocal and instrumental Rajasthani folk music, PC Jeweller presented the 'Swarn Dharohar' collection inspired by the mosaic of royal Rajasthan. Divided into three distinct segments — Gotta Patti, Blue Pottery and Pichwai — it was a perfect end to Day One. The Gotta Patti was a bridal line which showcased raani haars that had pearls and emeralds with breathtaking centrepieces. The Blue Pottery Line paid homage to the free-spirited and modern life of the Banjara tribe of the state. The Pichwai Line was the Seva theme based on different seasons and paintings to depict the moods of the season.

Archana Kochhar, Kriti Sanon and Saurav Bhattacharya, Group President Nakshatra World

The inspiration for the Nakshatra Diamond Jewellery line were the stars in the celestial sky. Tasselled ruby pendants, cascading neckpieces, flat diamond and emerald geometric collars, lacy necklaces with pearls and ruby accents created an unending line of beauty and jewellery. The glamorous clothes by designer Archana Kochhar, performances by Sandip Soparrkar and Alesia Raut and the perfect unison movement of the trio Sufi dancers added to the grand opening.

Young Arya Joshi with models on the ramp for Caratlane

The Caratlane collection saw a crisp, well-edited line of jewellery called 'Bombay Deco'. It was a tribute to the 'Bombay' that people love. On display were the Aaranya, Peacock, Butterfly, Lotus, Bombay Deco, Dhokra, Ikat, Uttarakshin, Sway and the Un-nostalgic gold lines that offered lots of options for functional and festive wear. From beautifully created delicate shoulder dusters, to fragile pendants, imposing rings, chunky bangles and bracelets, the collection was aimed at the jet-setting women of the 21st century.

Karan Wahi gears up for an erotic thriller in Bollywood

Karan Wahi

The line between cinema and television is getting increasingly blurred — while many B-Town biggies are getting lured by the reach and appeal of the small screen, a lot of TV actors are being beckoned by Bollywood as well. Karan Wahi is the latest example. BT has it that television's lover boy is all set for another outing in Bollywood with Hate Story 4. We hear that he has been paired opposite Urvashi Rautela (Yamaha Fascino Miss Diva 2015-Miss Universe India) in the fourth installment of the erotic thriller franchise.

He will be the third TV actor to feature in the franchise. Earlier, the makers had roped in Jay Bhanushali and Karan Singh Grover for the second and third installments.

Karan, whose last fiction outing was Kahani Hamari... Dil Dosti Deewanepan Ki, has been busy hosting and participating in reality shows. He was recently seen on Khatron Ke Khiladi.

Ridhi Dogra quits her TV show Woh Apna Sa

Ridhi Dogra

Rather than staying put on Woh Apna Sa, which is set to take a 20-year leap with a reincarnation track, actress Ridhi Dogra, who plays the antagonist in it, has decided to quit the show. Reason: The actress is in no mood to age on screen.

Ridhi, currently seen as a mother of two daughters, would have to play a 50-year-old once the reincarnation track is introduced. The actress confirms, "I have informed the production team of my decision. They told me that I will have a look that won't make me look older but I was sceptical. It's a risk and I am not ready to age on screen. Taking up a negative role was in itself a challenge for me. I don't mind playing an older character on stage or in a film, as that's for a short period, but TV is a different ball game. Fiction shows run indefinitely. I don't want to be stereotyped. I don't want to drag myself to the set cribbing and complaining every day about my role."

GIA TIP OF THE DAY

THE SECRET TO KEEP YOUR JEWELLERY SPARKLING

- Jewellery should never be tossed into a drawer or on top of a dresser. Sterling silver, for example, should be kept in an anti-tarnish bag or cloth. While travelling with jewellery, protect the pieces from scratches or other impact damage by padding the jewellery.

I am not made of plastic, there will be times when I will gain weight. Vivian Dsena

Vivian Dsena

Vivian Dsena is in the news for a 'heavy' issue these days — he has put on a few kilos. In a day and age when an actor's six-pack abs and style quotient draw even more attention than his work, it's not surprising that Vivian's weight gain is being talked about.

However, the actor says, "It is my weight. When I shed a few kilos, nobody spoke about it. So why are they commenting when I am gaining weight? In television, you don't act with your weight, you act with your face. As far as my weight is concerned, I am not made of plastic; it's natural to gain and lose a few kilos. To begin with, people have to understand that sexy does not mean six-pack abs and a good physique. There are many other things that add to a man's personality. You can gain weight and still be sexy."

Prod him a bit about his sudden weight gain and he explains, "I was playing football recently, when I injured my shin. Post that, I could not even run. I was the first person to realise that I am putting on weight, so it's not like I am not looking after myself. I am recovering from my injury," he signs off.

Amruta Khanvilkar

Amruta Khanvilkar to host a dance reality show

Actress Amruta Khanvilkar will soon make her debut as a host with the sixth season of the dance reality show Dance India Dance. She was last seen on the second season of 24. She also featured on Comedy Nights Bachao. Amruta says, "I am excited and looking forward to this stint as the show will mark my debut as a host on the small screen."
