GIA India Holds Seminar on 'Allure of Ruby, Sapphire and Emerald' in Jammu

Dec 27, 2018

GIA India recently organised a seminar titled "Allure of Ruby, Sapphire and Emerald" for members of the trade in Jammu. The seminar was conducted by GIA Instructor Rahul Ladiwal, who shared insights on the finest colours, best quality, sources, treatments and synthetics of rubies, sapphires and emeralds.

The event was organised in furtherance of the institute's avowed aim "To help ensure public trust in gems and jewellery".

"More than 40 members from Sarafa Association, Jammu, attended to gain important information on the big three gemstones," GIA reported.

Vijay Kumar Verma, General Secretary, Sarafa Association, Jammu, commented: "The seminar organised by GIA India was very informative for all the members of the association and will help us in buying and selling coloured gemstones."

Nirupa Bhatt, Managing Director of GIA India and Middle East, said, "As a public-benefit institute, GIA India organises these knowledge seminars to educate and empower the trade. This knowledge helps build consumer confidence in gems and jewellery. GIA India is grateful to the association in Jammu for their support in this endeavour to help their members understand the important aspects of the gem and jewellery industry."
